

Original Article

A Study of Migration Management and the Role of Resource Centers with Special Reference to India

Deepshikha Bhattacharjee <sup>*1</sup> and Somodatta Bhattacharjee <sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> Department of Law, Assam University, Silchar, Assam,

<sup>2</sup> Department of History, Assam University, Silchar, Assa

*Corresponding author email: deepshikhab108@gmail.co

Abstract: Migration has been a reality of human civilization. Human beings have migrated differently at different points of time. While in some host countries they are considered to be a blessing, in other, they are considered to be a burden. Normally, in case of international migration, it occurs from less developed countries to the developed ones. So, apart from the countries where emigration occurs gain from the remittances. Economic development of the countries towards development of not only the emigrating countries but also the countries where the migrants arrive. However, mismanagement of the process of migration can result in loss of benefit. To reap the benefit of migration, migration must be managed properly. Migration management is an important and it has to be done by both the sending and receiving countries. Migration management is to ensure safe, regular and orderly migration. Migrant Resource Centers (MRCs) play a very important role in this regard. The Migration Resource Centers of different countries are very important links in the process of migration. Migration Resource Centers are one of the key elements in achieving the objectives of migration management. They can be set up by Government or by non-governmental institutions, Trusts, etc. Migration Resource Centers can set up such centers for helping the existing as well as prospective migrants.

Citation: Bhattacharjee, D.; Bhattacharjee, S. (2021). A Study of Migration Management and the Role of Migration Resource Centers with Special Reference to India. Journal of Intellectuals, 1(1), 130–143. Retrieved from <https://journals.bahonacollege.edu.in/index.php/joi/article/view/joi2021-1-1-11>

Received: 11 August, 2021